

Four Cherry Hill Residents Receive Camden County Freedom Medals

Four Cherry Hill residents were among 11 men and women honored by the Camden County Board of Freeholders for their work to uphold the ideals and principles of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The honorees were given the Camden County Freedom Medal in a special ceremony on Wednesday, Jan. 18.

Our local recipients are

Michael Doyle, a member of St. Andrew's United Methodist Church who helped to establish the Cherry Hill Food Pantry;

As a member of St. Andrews United Methodist Church, Michael Doyle was instrumental in 9 Churches establishing the Cherry Hill Food Pantry in 2006. The Cherry Hill Food Pantry has grown from a small room in a church basement to a small grocery store in a shopping center. Over 1000 local families who have struggled financially to fill their pantry at home have turned to the Cherry Hill Food Pantry for assistance

Alan Braslow, who has been instrumental in the creation of Norman's Law, which bans the sale of puppy-mill dogs in the State of New Jersey; Jane Murphy, a former educator and volunteer at Camden's Urban Promise School who has worked to promote early literacy throughout our region; and Marshall Spevak, who has committed himself to serving our veteran and active-duty military community throughout South Jersey.

These men and women are shining examples of Dr. King's legacy, giving of their time and talents to make meaningful and significant contributions to our world. We are proud of the work they have done and continue to do, and are thrilled to see them receive this honor. To learn more about the Freedom Medal and this year's recipients, click here.
